A hoophouse is a structure farmers use to extend their growing season. Imagine a clear plastic tent - something you can walk around in - with the floor open to the ground. Vegetables, fruit and flowers grow directly in the soil.

These simple yet effective structures may look like a greenhouse, but lack heaters, cement floors or growing benches.

For more information about Hoophouses for Health, please visit hoophousesforhealth.org.