

Bean Stew

Makes 4 servings

- |   |   |
|---|---|
| 4 slices of bacon, cut into ½ inch strips | 5 cups vegetable stock                                  |
| 1 cup medium diced onion                  | 1 cup dried beans* (soaked overnight in water and salt) |
| 1 cup medium diced carrots                | 1 tsp salt  |
| 1 cup medium diced celery                 | 1 tsp apple cider vinegar                               |
| 1 tbsp minced fresh garlic                | Salt and pepper to taste                                |
| 3 tbsp chopped parsley                    |   |

1. Heat a sauce pot over medium heat and sauté bacon until it is about ¾ cooked. Remove the bacon, then sauté vegetables for 7-9 minutes; add garlic and sauté for an additional minute.
2. Add broth, beans, salt and bacon into the pot, then reduce heat to low and let simmer for 1 hour, stirring every 10 or 15 minutes. Note: if you are using canned beans, you will only need to simmer for 30-35 minutes.
3. Add vinegar. Taste, and adjust seasoning with salt and pepper. Serve hot.

\ feel free to substitute with 2 cans drained and rinsed beans*

Farmers Market Food Safety Tips

- Sort through dry beans before using and discard any bits of stalk or pebbles.
- Use separate cutting boards and knives for vegetables and meats to avoid cross contamination.
- Wash hands thoroughly between steps when handling produce and raw meat, poultry and seafood.
- Refrigerate any leftovers immediately.
